Groundwork Project
Groundwork Project LLC is co-founded by Prentis Hemphill and Kasha Ho. Groundwork Project (GP) oversees the programmatic work of The Embodiment Institute (TEI), a fiscally sponsored project of NEO Philanthropy. TEI emerges out of the long-term somatic teaching and on the ground healing justice work of its founder, Prentis Hemphill. TEI expands on that work to bring political and embodied emotional skills to our broader communities and to expand in our capacity and practice of just relationships. The Embodiment Institute is a training and research entity serving our embodied transformation. To that end, we offer tools and principles through which people can build and practice liberatory culture within their bodies, organizations, and networks. In addition to public trainings, we work with small to large-scale organizations on values definition, alignment, and conflict transformation and partner with collectives to build embodied emotional skills into their culture. The way we understand healing and wellness have to be interrupted. Healing should not leave us disengaged, but enlivened and connected. We are taking a multi-modality, and multidisciplinary approach to popularizing and sharing the process and potential of healing. This includes producing social media campaigns, multi-media toolkits, the Finding Our Way podcast, and collaborations with artists.
